TABLISHMENT.—The undersigned are authorized to sell the Hog Slaughtering Establishment in the city of Madison formerly owned by Sering & Pennison, situated on a tract of land containing about 4 acres, convenient to the railroad hog landing, and also to the business portion of the city.

The improvements are substantially built and afford the very best facilities for the speedy and economical slaughtering of hogs. The Hanging House is 120 feer long by 60 wide; the Slaughter House 80 by 30; and the Lard House and Warehouse 200 by 40. An Office, Stable, and other out-buildings are conveniently situated on the premises.

The pens are all floored and sufficiently large to contain from 8,000 to 10,000 hogs.

The establishment is supplied with water from springs on the adjoining hills. The supply is ample, and the water is conducted to each department through pipes, and without the necessity or use of an engine for that purpose.

A SONG FOR THINKERS. BY CHARLES SWAIN. Take the Spade of Perseverance,
Dig the field of Progress wide,
Every rotten root of faction
Hurry out and cast aside;
Every stubborn weed of Error,
Every weed that hurrs thesoil;
Tares, whose very growth is terror
Dig them out whate'er the toil.

Men are agents for the fortune; As they work, so ages win: Either harvest of advancement, Or the products of their sin: Follow out true cultivation; Widen Education's plan; From the Majesty of Nature, Teach the Majesty of Man. Take the Spade of Perseverance,
Dig the field of Progress wide;
Every bar to true instruction
Carry out and cast aside:
Feed the Plant whose fruit is Wisdom;
Cleanse from Crime the common sod;
So that from the throne of Heaven
It may bear the glance of God.

He was four years old in March; and his mother, tired of the trouble of watching him at home, thinks he will "do to go to school this summer with sister Jane," upon whom is imposed the task of seeing that he "don't get hurt." Accordingly he is fitted out in a new suit of clothes, consisting of a coarse cotton shirt without collar or wristbands; a garment of blue cotton drilling, serving for vest and trowsers; the upper part being like the waist of a gown, and the trowsers which are attached to this reaching just three inches below the knase; and the whole garment buttoning up behind; a calico apronand a palmeleaf hat. "Sir," replied Mrs. Polk with very good humor, but very significantly, "I never have seen it otherwise." One morning I found her reading. Beware of Brandy.—We warn the good people of this city, who occasionally take a little "for the stomach's sake," to beware how they drink brandy, or we wo'd rather say, the red liquor, which is handed out to them at tavern nters under that name. It is a well-known fact, that there is scarcely a bar room in the city, however extensive, elegant, or pretentious, that contains a drop of the genuine article. In-deed, very little of it comes into the country from France, and what does come commands an almost fabulous price—a price so great, at any rate, as to exclude it, almost entire, from the retail trade. Indeed, even with the best will to sell a good article, the tavern-keeper cannot surely get it. The article which he buys under the custom-house lock, and which unquestionably has come from France, is nothing more nor less than a portion of the millions of gallons of "pure spirit," i. e., alcohol, which has been exported from this country, to receive, in France, its coloring and its flaver from the essential "oil of Cognac," and then to be imported back

This is no illusion, but a fact of daily prac-tice, and it would be safe to conclude, that any glass which you may take up, at any bar in town, is nothing but colored pure spirit, flavor-ed with a few drops of the poisonous oil alluded to. The same may be said of the stuff that is furnished you in demijohns from the wholesale grocers and liquor dealers, for family use, at the rate of five, six, and even seven dollars per gallon. Through the failure of the grape in France, and the immense consumption of the the May number. "Between seven and eight, he drops off the dudience; and when they were admitted, it was upper part of the blue-drilling garment, above described, and suspends his trowsers by strings of the same material, which he calls 'galluses.' One individual wanted a small country postdescribed, and suspends his trowsers by strings of the same material, which he calls 'galluses.' When he is about twelve, we see him at church, dressed in striped pantaloons, a trifle longer than those in which we first saw him at school; a calico vest, and a white spencer. His coarse shirt-collar is now starched stiff as tin, and tied with a black ribbon; and his mammoth feet are for the first time encased in a pair of cow-hide shoes, without stockings. He has also come into possession of a huge jack-knife, which seems to constitute a part of his very person, for he is never seen without it, and he never allows it to rest, cutting his long finger-nails and prying apart his teeth when he can find nothing to whittle.

"At sixteen he graduates from school, having done most of the-sums in the 'rithmetic, and his glory. Yes, there he is; the identical Jon athan, mounted on an antiquated cart, dealing out pins, needles, combs, husbes are reserved.

His dress now consists of a pair of wine-colored velvet pantaloons, much worn, a high forehead is essential to beauty, and hard the warp and lining of what was once a satin vest; and a linen coat, with a hole in each el-bow. His linen is badly soiled, and his cravat, the black silk handkerchief his father gave him on leaving home, is tied in a sailor's-knot, and ornamented with a 'huge 'buzom-pin.' His boots of calf-skin have 'run over,' and are minus the original black of the leather from which they were made. He is just six feet three inches in height, somewhat round-shouldered, and wenty-five rounds.

IF We have heard many incidents of the transactions of Thursday night; but they are not material. The terrible tragedy is passed; and bad as it was, it is well it is no worse; for after a mob is started, its fury may be pointed to the innocent as well as the guilty. Men are often thoughtless about mobs; they even chuckle over lawless exploits, when the results are favorable to the objects in view; but what is the difference in the character of a murder, burglary, or house-burning, by a mob and by an in dividual? Taking the lives of persons acquit ted by the law, if done by an individual, is denounced by all as a capital offense; is the deed sanctified by the voice of a crowd? Unfortunately, reason is not heard in a reign of terror. The world has witnessed an example of mob law on a large scale; on a national theater, where popular discretion pursued its objects without the restraints of law and custom .-France, in 1790, expunged the despotic institutions of ages, and substituted nothing stable in their place. Individuals and corporations did what was right in their eyes. The scenes enacted are memorable in the world's history They filled the world with consternation and horror. It was not that there was not intelligence and virtue in France; the constitutional assembly that inaugurated the revolution, the national convention that sat amid the storm, contained as much talent and patriotism, and gave as lofty examples of heroic courage, as the world ever witnessed ; but unfortunately society had no power to restrain the actions of the vile and depraved of mankind. The worst of men assumed an affected patriotism, and rioted in crime under the cloak of a zeal for liberty. The record of events in that country illustrates the dangers of anarchy, and the deplorable con-

THE BIBLE PANORAMA AT MOZART HALL This painting will remain in Louisville anothe week. It is an exception to the many exhibi tions which have visited our city-the longer i stays and the more it is seen, the better it is liked. Thousands are repeating their visits to Mozart Hall for the purpose of enjoying again the grandeur, beauty, and magnificence of this master-piece of art. The great popularity o this painting, wherever it has been exhibited, i but a just tribute to the judgment and genius of the artist. The subject is a proper one, and the scenes are so simple, truthful, and beautiful that they at once find a response in the mind o every beholder. So when the painting unfolds the beauties of the garden of Eden, with its flowers and glowing landscapes, its bowers and waterfalls, the spectator can hardly avoid exclaiming aloud, "how beautiful! that is just a I always pictured Paradise in my own mind.' It is this sympathy, with the feeling of the popular mind and the great artistic skill of the painter in representing scenes of beauty to the eye, that must command for this exhibition, as it has hitherto commanded, the admiration of the public wherever it goes. Repeated visits have only confirmed us in the opinion we first forme of its excellence as a work of art, as well as it utility, especially to the young, in leaving upor the mind vivid moral impressions. Everybody should see it who can; they may obtain usefu instructions from it to carry with them through

CORN SALES YESTERDAY .- W. C. D. Whippe Esq., Marshal of the Louisville Chancery Court sold a lot of 7,695 sacks of corn at auction yes terday, by order of the Chancellor. This is the largest single sale of corn ever made in this city. The history of this lot of corn has bee given before, but it would not be inappropria to make the repetition. It was originally pur chased by Michael Herr & Co., at Shawn town, Ill., who subsequently failed, having bed shipped on the steamers J. H. Done and Leba non for Baltimore, but on the arrival of the boats here, the corn was attached by J. B. Lehmer & Co., of Cincinnati, to whom Herr & Co. were largely indebted. It has been lying in store here ever since, and when first stored two months since, was worth about fifty-five cent per bushel. The corn was sold in lots of 50 sack the purchaser having the privilege of taking 1,000 sacks. COAL MINE FOR SALE OR TO LEASE.

THE UNDERSIGNED WOULD INform those who may desire to invest in the Mining business, that they have for sale or to lease a valuable Coal Mine, recently opened, and now in condition to turn out daily 1,500 bushels, which yield may be increased to any desirable amount by driving the entries. This coal is situated immediately on the Wabash and Erie canal, near the crossing at White river, forty miles from its southern terminus, at Evansville, on the Ohio; eight miles from the point where the Ohio and Mississippi railroad crosses the canal; fifteen miles from Vincennes, and three from Washington, Davis county. At Evansville, and other places along the line of the canal; this coal is already in very high repute—being considered, by those who have examined and tested it, decidedly superior to any coal yet discovered in the West, and all ways commanding, in the same markets with them, a higher price than other Western coals. It is a hand some article, rich in bituminous matter, yields largely of gas, and makes excellent coke for foundery purposes, as has been fully shown by experiment within the last twelve months. Such is the demand for it by the founderies and other manufacturing establishments, to say nothing of the demand for family consumption, that the proprietors, with all their available mining capital, and not been able, thus far, to bring the supply to one tenth part of the demand. The Mine is now in complete working order, with two entries, railways, mining implements, cars, boats, &c. No Mine can be worked cheaper—it being drained by a water level, the coal drawn out by mules and tipped into boats from the mouths of the entries, and no steam or water power, nor expensive machinery of any kind, required. The cost of coal delivered in the boats is 2% cents; and the sales, thus far, have averaged from 10 to 12 cents per bushel. The coal field embraces near three hundred acres. There are two stratas of coal, an upper (that now being worked), and a lower—the former five feet in thickness, and the

LOUISVILLE, KY.

Such is the superiority of these Glasses, that persons having inflamed or weak eyes may instantly be relieved by using them, and they possess the property of preserving the precious organ of sight to the most advanced period of life, while they enable both the old and the young to pursue the most minute employment for any length of time, either by day or candlelight. He will give references to people in the United States who have found the greatest benefit and comfort in the use of his newly-invented and improved Spectacles.

I hereby certify that the Eye Glasses shown me by G. Solomons are superior in finish and less obstructing to my perfect vision than any I have ever examined, and cheerfully recommend them to all in need of Glasses.

R. H. JOHNSON, M. D., Eye Infirmary,
Southwest corner Fourth and Sycamore streets.

Cincinnati, February 15, 1856.

Mr. Solomons has furnished me with my first pair of Glasses. They appear to answer the purpose very well, and occasion no uneasiness to the eyes when used. The testimony of other medical gentlemen, of experience in the matter, is very conclusive in favor of these articles.
